Welcome message

The Congress in Pavia will allow us to celebrate a special event for our society: the anniversary of its foundation in October 1901 by the great scientists C. Golgi, G. Bizzozero, P. Foà, and B. Morpurgo. 125 years of research, innovation, and scientific discoveries that have profoundly transformed our understanding of medicine and biology. This congress is not only a moment of reflection on the path we have taken, but also an opportunity to renew our commitment to the advancement of science and medicine. Over these years, general pathology has continued to play a crucial role in the study of diseases, influencing the diagnosis, prevention, and treatment of numerous pathological conditions.

I look forward to welcoming many of you in September, promoting new connections, and further strengthening our community in Pavia.
